STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIPS POLICY

The Longhorn Foundation Trust (LFT) recognizes that sustainable education transformation requires strong collaboration with institutions that share a commitment to improving learning outcomes for underserved children. In pursuit of its mission to advance foundational literacy and numeracy, LFT establishes and maintains strategic partnerships with public schools, county governments, national education authorities, non-governmental organizations, development partners, and community-based institutions. These partnerships enable the organization to align its programs with national education priorities, strengthen local ownership, and expand the reach and sustainability of learning interventions. Guided by its core values, LFT is committed to building transparent, mutually beneficial, and accountable partnerships that enhance collective impact in the education sector.

Policy Objectives

LFT seeks to develop and sustain strategic partnerships that strengthen the design, implementation, and impact of its education programs. Through collaboration with key stakeholders, the Foundation aims to ensure that its initiatives complement national and county education priorities while responding to the needs of local communities. Partnerships will support knowledge sharing, resource mobilization, technical collaboration, and coordinated action to improve literacy and numeracy outcomes among underserved learners.

Policy Principles

1) Alignment with National and Local Education Priorities

LFT will establish partnerships that align with Kenya's national education policies, curriculum frameworks, and county-level education priorities. By collaborating with public institutions and education stakeholders, the Foundation ensures that its programs contribute to broader educational goals while strengthening coordination within the education ecosystem.

2) Collaboration with Education and Community Institutions

LFT will work closely with public schools, county governments, national education authorities, non-governmental organizations, and community institutions to design and implement programs that respond to local learning needs. These collaborations will support community participation, encourage shared responsibility for educational improvement, and enhance the relevance and effectiveness of interventions.

3) Strengthening Local Ownership and Capacity

The Foundation is committed to empowering local partners to actively participate in program planning, implementation, and evaluation. By building the capacity of educators, community leaders, and partner organizations, LFT promotes sustainable solutions that can continue to benefit learners beyond the duration of individual projects.
